Other Uses of the Ponds

These ponds were originally created by rock excavation for road surfacing. They are also important water sources for livestock watering, fighting fire and road watering for dust abatement. These ponds will continue to be used for such purposes, which may occasionally interfere with fishing activities.

Stocked Fishing Ponds on the Walla Walla Ranger District

The Oregon Department of Fish and Wildlife (ODFW), in cooperation with the Umatilla National Forest (US Forest Service), annually stocks eight rock quarry ponds on the Walla Walla Ranger District with catchable sized trout. Depending on access, the ponds are usually stocked by mid to late June.

These ponds are not near developed campgrounds, so plan your fishing trip as a day-use activity, or come prepared for primitive camping. If you camp, please remember to tread lightly. Respect the environment and other users.

Leave no trace or evidence that you were there. Do not clean your fish in the pond. Doing so fouls the water. If you clean your fish on site, bury the waste parts. Please pack out your trash and keep vehicles on roads or in parking areas.

Oregon State fishing regulations apply to these ponds. Check your fishing regulations pamphlet, to make sure you have the appropriate fishing license.

Read on for directions to the ponds. The map on the reverse side of this brochure will help you locate them.

Good fishing!
