

Oregon Furbearer Trapping and Hunting Regulations

July 1, 2010 through June 30, 2012

Trapper Education Requirement

By action of the 1985 Oregon Legislature, all trappers born after June 30, 1968, and all first-time Oregon trappers are required to complete an approved trapper education course.

The course is not required of persons trapping on land owned or leased by that person, the person's immediate family, or a person's agent who is controlling damage to livestock or agricultural crops.

The course may be completed at home. Testing will take place at Oregon Department of Fish and Wildlife (ODFW) offices throughout the state. A furtaker's license will be issued by the Salem headquarters ODFW office after the test has been successfully completed and mailed to Salem headquarters.

Course materials are available by writing or telephoning Oregon Department of Fish and Wildlife, I&E Division, 3406 Cherry Ave. NE, Salem, OR 97303, (800) 720-6339 x76002.

License Requirements

Juveniles younger than 14 years of age are not required to purchase a license, except to hunt or trap bobcat and otter. They must also register to receive a brand number through the Salem ODFW office. To trap bobcat or otter juveniles must complete the Trapper Education course.

Landowners must obtain either a furtaker's license, a hunting license for furbearers, or a free license to take furbearers on land they own and on which they reside. To receive the free license, the landowner must obtain from the Salem ODFW office, a receipt of registration for the location of such land prior to hunting or trapping furbearing mammals on that land.

Persons who were licensed, but did not fill out and return a completed furtaker harvest report form postmarked by April 15, will not be issued a furbearer harvest license for the following season.

- This furtaker had hounds and took bobcat and raccoon in two counties over four days during the season. He recorded the days he spent in both counties for both species.
- Note that he did not harvest any bobcat in Yamhill County during these four days.
- He also spent two days training his dogs during the pursuit season in Yamhill County. He treed and released two bobcats.

Attention Bobcat Hunters and Trappers:

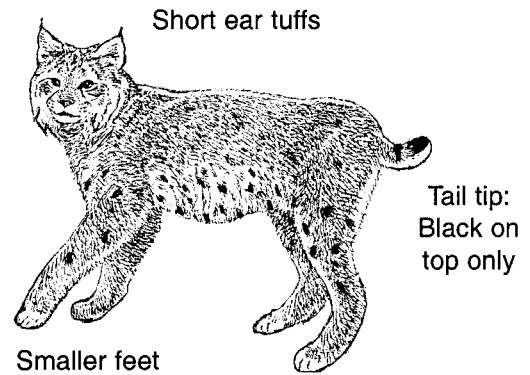

In March 2000, the Canada Lynx was listed as threatened under the federal Endangered Species Act in 14 states, including Oregon. There are no known lynx populations in Oregon at this time, however, individual lynx are known to disperse into Oregon occasionally.

Although rare, the potential exists for Oregon bobcat trappers and hunters to encounter a lynx. Trappers and hunters must know the difference between lynx and bobcat and their sign to avoid catching or killing a lynx.

Note: Lynx tracks are similar in size to cougar. Pad impressions are less distinct on lynx due to heavy fur on feet.

Gray wolves are protected by both the state and federal Endangered Species Act at the time of this printing (mid-July 2008). They will remain state-listed even if wolves are federally de-listed from the ESA. It is unlawful to harm or kill any wolf in Oregon.

In July 2008, wildlife biologists confirmed a wolf pack with pups in northern Union County and wolves could occur elsewhere in northeastern Oregon. Generally, if proper precautions are observed, wolf presence should not affect most trapping activities. Following are some tips to minimize the risk of accidental capture.

Avoid trapping in areas with common or recent wolf sign.

Learn how to identify wolf sign. Before setting coyote or other large furbearer traps, look for wolf sign in the area. Wolves are highly mobile and can travel large distances daily. However, trapping in areas with common or recent wolf sign increases the chance of accidental wolf capture.

Improve coyote trapping systems to reduce the chance of capturing wolves or losing traps. Smaller traps for coyotes (#3 or smaller) reduce the chance of holding a trapped wolf. Double staking or cross pinning stakes (metal, 18-24 inches long) can prevent trap loss. Wolves are strong enough to pull out shorter stakes, especially in soft substrate. Staked traps should have about 8" or less of chain and a stout swivel system. Reinforce links by welding if necessary.

When using a drag system, use heavy drags and chains with stout swivels. Make sure all links are welded and swivels are strong. The drag system should be heavy enough to hold a 100+ pound animal. Traps anchored to a drag should have a minimum of 7 feet of chain. Reinforce links by welding if necessary.

Use a high-quality snare with breakaways. Snares should be well-anchored and have a long cable. Be mindful of where and how the snare is placed relative to obstacles such as logs, as these could entangle an animal caught incidentally, preventing the breakaway from working properly. Again, avoid hanging snares on trails that have or have had wolf sign.

If a wolf is caught in a trap, immediately call one of the following:

Report wolf activity

Because of their knowledge of predators and animal sign, licensed trappers can play an important role in the conservation and management of wolves in Oregon. Please report any wolf observations or sign to ODFW by calling the department's Wolf Coordinator at 541-962-1831, US Fish and Wildlife Service at 541-786-3282 or 541-962-8584 or online through ODFW's web site (www.dfw.state.or.us/wolves). Information such as the number and description of animals observed, track measurements, and other sign is extremely valuable to current wolf monitoring efforts. By working cooperatively, ODFW can improve wolf location information while helping trappers avoid accidental capture.
