Subject: Humboldt Marten protection

To whom it may concern at the Wildlife Division:

The Humboldt martens were believed extinct until not too long ago, and instead of celebrating the discovery that the species still exists, Oregon is refusing to even consider the matter.

Without state protection they are unlikely to survive for future generations of Oregonians.

The logging of old-growth forests and fur trapping has decimated and separated populations. Populations on the southern coast are now threatened by severe wildfires and rodent poisons used in marijuana cultivation. Populations on the central coast are threatened by vehicle mortalities on Highway 101 and lack of suitable mature forest diversity.

Please support and undertake measures to protect the Humboldt martens.

Sincerely

Subject: Humboldt Martens /trapping

I read with horror that you are taking the Humboldt Martin off protection, and that you allow trapping for skinning them. Good god, here I was proud of my birth state for responsible environmental policies, and I read of this truly depraved practice. Have you always allowed trapping for fur? Do you allow the same for other species that have nice coats?

Get real, Oregon! Most people will not wear animal furs because of the cruelty that goes into their deaths, ie, trapping. And how many tiny martens to make a coat? What a waste!

Why would you condone this? I thought Oregon was a caring state, protecting lands, owls, bats, fish. Not so much I guess.

I would appreciate an explanation of why ODFW changed the protections for this valuable predator.

Very disappointed.

We have a reprieve—these small carnivores were thought to be extinct, but they are not! We have a chance to help this struggling species reclaim its Oregon niche. Wildfires have devastated so many, as has heavy pesticide use; let's do what we can to protect our fellow residents of this planet and give them a second chance.

Thanks for rethinking the Fish and Wildlife position on this—these are your constituents; be their voice in government.

Chair Finley, Commissioners, and Director Melcher,

The Oregon Hunters Association has voiced strong opposition to the APA petition to ban marten trapping west of the I-5 corridor since its presentation to the commission in August 2018. We continue to have concerns regarding the lack of scientific evidence presented to support the petition's requests.

Currently, there are on-going research projects focused on the marten population in western Oregon. In light of these studies, we support the recommended rules changes proposed by ODFW staff.

- Setting aside the Oregon Dunes National Recreation Area as a non-marten trapping area supports the current research projects while continuing to allow use of this management tool for marten predators, such as bobcats.
- While trapping has been virtually non-existent in recent years, turning in the carcass of any marten trapped, including roadkill, will assist in the on-going research by ODFW and additional organizations.

OHA supports science-based management of Oregon's wildlife, both game and non-game species. The rules changes proposed by staff are based on factual agency reports and offer support to the on-going research of the marten population. In the absence of this research, any broad-sweeping rules changes set the dangerous precedent of eliminating impactful management tools without clear scientific justification.

Sincerely,

Fred Walasavage

RE: Coastal Marten

The Oregon Trappers Association has some serious concerns with the direction this commission seems to be taking concerning the coastal marten. We feel the research paper "Density and population viability of coastal marten: a rare and geographically isolated small carnivore" was ill conceived and incomplete. We also feel some of the facts concerning coastal marten are being ignored by this commission. Following are the facts this commission needs to be aware of.

Fact 1: Since 2015 no marten have been trapped in Coos, western Douglas, western Lane and Lincoln counties. During this same time three marten were killed by researchers, two of those being illegal since they were not taken under permit.

Fact 2: The density of the marten population in the Oregon Dunes National Recreation Area (ODNRA) is by far the densest known marten population in North America.

Fact 3: Marten have been found both north and south of the Oregon Dunes National Recreation Area, and in other areas up and down the coast. Therefore it has not been proven that this population in the dunes is geographically isolated.

The only thing proven by this research is that coastal marten exist in the ODNRA and in denser numbers than any other known population in North America. We also know that marten have been found to exist both north and south of the ODNRA. So are they really geographically isolated as this research paper states? The real question for research is why has this population of marten become so successful in an area that is not normally considered marten habitat?

We believe these facts all indicate that trapping has not had any negative effects on the coastal marten. Despite this, stopping trapping is the only measure being targeted to "save" the marten, a population that appears to be thriving.

Our fears are that some members of this commission might be driven by factors that are more of a political nature. It has become apparent that there is a faction that does not approve of trapping and would shut us down if they could. Trappers care deeply for the furbearers that we help to manage. They work within the guidelines set by Oregon Department of Fish and Wildlife and take an active role in establishing regulations that insure all our furbearer populations will remain healthy for generations to come. Furbearers are a resource that is renewable on a yearly basis and trappers work towards maintaining them at peak numbers compatible with their habitat.

The Oregon Trappers Association will support the proposed regulations set forth by the Oregon Department of Fish and Wildlife, to close marten trapping in the Oregon Dunes National Recreation Area and require all marten carcasses be turned in to ODFW within five days.

Dear ODFW Commission:

I am writing you to urge you to take immediate action regarding the imperiled Humboldt marten.

First, I would ask you to implement the ban of trapping practices that could kill martens in the central and southern coastal areas of Oregon. The Department has not taken any action to implement the restrictions you passed in August, and the trapping season begins in November. An emergency rule may be necessary to ensure that the species does not go extinct. Recent studies have concluded that the loss of just a few individual martens annually could lead to imminent extinction of the species.

Second, I am requesting that you revisit your decision to not list the Humboldt marten as an "endangered species." The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service recently proposed the species for listing under the federal Endangered Species Act, recognizing that the best available science warrants listing for the species. However, finalizing the federal listing could take a couple of years and again, current immediate threats that highways and trapping pose to the species fall under state agency jurisdiction, and your leadership is needed to ensure the marten's recovery.

Thank you for considering my comments!

Sincerely,

Bruce Forster

Dear ODFW Commission:

I am writing you to urge you to take two actions regarding the imperiled Humboldt marten.

First, I would ask you to ban trapping practices that could kill martens in the central and southern coastal areas of Oregon. This preliminary step is critical to ensuring that the species does not go extinct. Recent studies have concluded that the loss of just a few individual martens annually could lead to imminent extinction of the species.

Second, I am requesting that you list the Humboldt marten as an "endangered species." The current immediate threats that highways and trapping pose to the species fall under state agency jurisdiction, and your leadership is needed to ensure the marten's recovery.

Thank you for considering my comments!

Sincerely,

Lorraine Dumas

Re: Petition for Marten Harvest rule amendments to OAR 635- 050

Dear Chair Finley and Members of the Commission,

Thank you for the opportunity to provide our shared comments on proposed rulemaking for marten harvest west of I-5. The Oregon Forest & Industries Council and the Oregon Farm Bureau have previously and continuously stated opposition to the proposed amendments via the petition for rulemaking accepted by the Commission August 3, of 2018. It is our shared belief that the acceptance of that petition and the proposed amendments represent a perilous course of action that begins to erode the standard agency driven public process for rulemaking. Further, the petition was founded on a lack of sufficient scientific evidence to support both the claims of harm from trapping and the effectiveness of the amendments in addressing the suppositional population threat.

The best place for sound science-based management of Oregon's wildlife, both game and non-game species lies within recommendations of the staff at ODFW. The process of repeatedly petitioning the Commission for piecemeal actions via rulemaking will inevitably lead to a counterproductive, misguided, and unwieldy process of public policy.

ORS 183.390 exists for the public to request the promulgation, amendment or repeal of a rule of an agency. The statute establishes clear criteria for these petitions. It concerns us that groups have politicized the Commission to operate counter to the statute with a petition under the Oregon APA founded on the beginnings of a scientific review of a species population. Should an urgent need for protection of the coastal marten or any species in Oregon arise, the Department would either engage in rulemaking or accept a scientifically supported petition. In this specific example, there has not been a single documented take from fur harvest activities of a coastal marten since 2014.

The required data the trapping community provides through their mandatory reporting is well established and invaluable in the management of other species. We believe that the broad brush of banning trapping of marten west of I-5 would not only miss the mark for conservation of the species but may inadvertently remove a valuable tool for information collection.

OREGON

Additionally, banning tree sets in the National Forests would only serve to continue the gradual erosion of potentially necessary management tools, while simultaneously introducing complicated enforcement goals. Taken together the original proposed amendments invoke admonishment of trapping in general. Despite precise data showing the contrary, these actions appear to seek a solution without clear evidence of a problem. The only certainty in setting policy in this manner lies in impeding valuable management tools which can impact our ag producers, foresters, and agencies' ability to monitor populations and address threats.

Our concern is that agencies' boards and commissions will continue to be pressured through the petition process and the intention of the designed rulemaking becomes obsolete. There is danger in establishing precedent of commissions being pressured into acting unilaterally to accept and reward these efforts. As our organizations recognize that, identifying compromise to establish workable policy by engaging with ODFW staff is critical. Our impacted communities have agreed to demonstrate through leadership that while we don't agree with the premise, we still believe in the need to participate and be productive.

To that end, our organizations are supportive of the proposed amendment to the regulations set forth by the Oregon Department of Fish and Wildlife, to close Marten trapping in the Oregon Dunes National Recreation Area and require all marten carcasses taken west of I-5 be turned in to ODFW within five days. We would stop short of supporting anything beyond that.

Thank you for taking our testimony and considerations. We look forward to our ongoing work with both the Oregon Department of Fish and Wildlife and the Commission.
