

Changes to Part 4(C) ODFW (1) Hatchery Management Report

In the period between, posting the January 2005 public review draft of this section of the Oregon Coastal Coho Assessment and the current (April 2005) draft, this report has been reviewed and updated based on comments from the Coastal Coho Recovery Project Stakeholder Team, NOAA Fisheries, IMST, the public, and author review. Stakeholder Team comments were received prior to completion of the January 2005 draft of the report, and were incorporated in that draft. We re-examined those comments as part of the current review and developed individual responses to each Stakeholder Team comment, available in a separate document. The other comments were received in March 2005, and the report has been reviewed and edited in response to those comments. At this time we do not have a document of responses to each of these individual comments.

Many of the comments in regards to hatcheries and hatchery fish are in response to Parts 1 through 3 of the Oregon Coastal Coho Assessment. Additional, comments asked for greater incorporation of information in Part 4 in Parts 1 through 3, or for specific information that was covered in Part 4 but not in Parts 1 through 3. As parts 1 through 3 are being edited by other authors, the above types of comments did not result in changes in this report and are not discussed here.

In general, this report, Part 4(C) ODFW (1) Hatchery Management Report, has been edited and updated in the following ways:

- Updated Table 8 on the status of HGMPs.
- Clarified relationship between brood year and release year.
- Discussion of Devils Lake rainbow trout program.
- Further discussion on hatchery chinook juvenile releases.
- Adjusted references to other chapters of the report to reflect the numbering system for Part 4.
