Project Description (in 250 words or less):

The NW Oregon / SW Washington Canada Goose Depredation Control Plan was developed by the NW Oregon / SW Washington Goose Depredation Working Group and approved by the Pacific Flyway Council in 1998. The NW Oregon / SW Washington Canada Goose Depredation Control Plan has been a cooperative effort by landowners, wildlife management and wildlife damage control agencies, and researchers to address the problem of increased goose damage to agricultural crops in the Pacific Northwest. To be most successful, plan activities must be continued for several years to allow development of programs to influence goose use of private lands. The NW Oregon / SW Washington Canada Goose Depredation Working Group will continue to work toward establishing a long-term program to lessen the economic impact of increased goose use of this region.

The funds will be spent to implement the NW Oregon / SW Washington Canada Goose Depredation Control Plan including research at Oregon State University, personnel to provide assistance to landowners, managing hunting seasons designed to reduce depredation, monitoring goose populations to evaluate success, and enhancing alternative goose foraging areas. Cost share funds of $250,000 will be provided by Oregon and Washington Fish and Wildlife agencies.
